With the contest on United States senator and governorship settled beyond question, interest centers now on the rest of the Republican state ticket where some very close contests have developed. It would seem almost certain that the following leagueurs have been nominated: State Auditor Poin Dexter, Insurance Commissioner Olsen, and Milhollan, Fay Harding and McDonnell of the railroad commissioners. They are leading the independents in a compilation of counties where Nestos' vote is more than 4,000 more than Baker's, indicating that Governor Nestos has run far ahead of the balance of the ticket and secured league support that did not go to other candidates on the Independent Republican ticket.

The race for attorney general is exceedingly close as is also that for state treasurer and commissioner of agriculture. Leagueurs have a fighting chance for these positions also although it may be late today before anything definite is known other than that the vote will be close.

On governorship, 1,899 precincts give Nestos 89,322; Baker 72,807, and Stegner 2,334. Nestos has a plurality of 16,516.

With the rural vote coming in, Frazier continued to pile up a safe lead over Senator McCumber. In 1,882 precincts the vote stood: Frazier 81,486; McCumber, 75,783, or a lead for Frazier of 5,713.

Although returns are too meager to base a prediction upon the winners in the Republican primary on the balance of the state ticket, some startling disclosures are made upon a tabulation of returns from various counties. All anti-league candidates for other offices are running far behind Nestos while the league candidates are polling practically Baker's vote and in some instances running ahead of their candidate for governor.

It would appear that the league has a fighting chance to capture many of the other state offices.

Olsen and Poin Dexter in counties tabulated are leading as well as Harding, Milhollan and McDonnell. Olson and Garberg are crowding their adversaries.

Three league candidates carried Burleigh county while Governor Nestos had a majority of about 500 votes for the Independent side, according to unofficial figures today for all but three rural precincts. Oliver A. Olson for treasurer had a lead of about 800 on this basis. S. A. Olsen, a leader of about 280 and D. C. Poin Dexter a lead of about 400. The three precincts yet to report were expected to slightly increase the majority of these three candidates, while depressing the lead of Governor Nestos.

Governor Nestos had a lead of 571 with all but three small precincts in and officials in those precincts could not be reached by phone. His majority will stand at about 600. Senator McCumber's vote will be somewhat less, his majority ranging about 200.

HARDING ASKS SETTLEMENT OF COAL STRIKE

Addresses Operators and Miners' Representatives, Asking Harmony

"FREE U. S. OF STRIKES"

President Says American Public Has Right to Demand That They Cease

(By the Associated Press)
Washington, July 1.—With all participants pledged to maintain silence during the interim conference of coal operators and miners summoned today by President Harding took a two hour adjournment shortly after noon.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, had made a lengthy address during the session and Secretary Hoover had intervened in the deliberations. Mr. Lewis' demand was understood to be for a reconstruction of the joint wage conference between miners union officers and coal operators in the central field. Chairman Ogle made some remarks but the attitude of the operators had not been stated fully before the temporary adjournment.

The president in addressing the gathering which included about thirty operators, the same number approximately of United Mine Workers officials and district presidents and Secretaries Hoover, Davis and Fall declared the present was no time for the "mutual note of the radical" and reminded the conference that "toleration, fairness, the spirit of give and take and finally a sense of the larger obligations to the public are essential to successful conference."

Coupled with his appeal and admonition the president uttered what was regarded as a warning when he said that if the operators and miners could not "settle this matter in a frank recognition of the mutuality of your interests" * * * then the larger public interest must be asserted in the name of the people where the common good is the first and highest concern.

President Harding in convening the conference of bituminous and anthracite coal operators and United Mine Workers officials at the white house today to devise means of negotiating a settlement of the nationwide coal strike advised both parties to arrive with measurable promptness at an understanding "for your mutual good and the country's common good."

Miners and operators numbering about fifty and representing both the bituminous and anthracite coal fields in which work has been suspended since April 1 met at the white house today with President Harding in an endeavor instituted by the government to find a basis for negotiating a settlement of differences.

There were no signs of weakening in the opposing contentions of coal miners and coal operators as they gathered at the white house. The operators in informal discussion appeared a unit in declaring that no continuation of central competitive field wage agreements, which constitutes the semi-national contract would be allowed, while John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and his district presidents indicated themselves inclined to insist on this.

Harding Opens Conference
President Harding opened the conference in executive session with an address to the two parties, speaking only about ten minutes. The conference then was adjourned at a meeting room in the interior department and there continued in executive session. A. M. Ogle, president of the National Coal Association, which is representative of the bituminous operators was elected chairman, and William Green, general secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, was elected secretary. Secretaries Hoover and Davis accompanied the party to the interior department meeting.

"You are admonished to arrive at some understanding with measurable promptness among yourselves," the president declared. "If the adjustment cannot be reached by you at once government aid will be available at your joint call. We wish you who best know the way to solution to reach it among yourselves in a manner to command the sanction of American public opinion. Failing in that, the servants of the American people will be called to the task in the name of the American people."

"There were three things that I remember. One was his connection in the past with the Nonpartisan League. A second was the Judge Andrew Miller appointment. The third was the deal of two years ago which defeated the late Senator Senator A. J. Gronna, a thing Gronna's friends could not forgive."

Dublin, July 1.—The provisional Free State government turned today to the task of clearing the remaining nests of insurgents, following the fall of the Four Courts, their chief stronghold.

The surrender this morning of more than fifty rebels who had been holding out in the Chapel street area was hailed as evidence the morale of the Republicans had been weakened by the yielding of Rory O'Connor and Liam Mellows, two of their strongest fighting leaders.

More encouraging news was received from the provinces early today, including accounts of victories for the national troops in Bunratty and Letterkenny. The government forces are declared in control of the entire Tipperary area.

The total casualties in the three days fighting in Dublin have not yet been ascertained but it is estimated they will not greatly exceed 100, the fatalities being placed at about forty.

CAR-REPAIRERS ON RAILROADS QUIT THEIR WORK

Chicago, July 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Thousands of railway shopmen dropped their tools today to join the nationwide strike call issued by the international presidents of the six shop crafts unions. Early reports indicated that shop mechanics and their helpers from the New England roads to the western trans-continental lines were generally joining the walkout, with about 50,000 already reported to have actually quit work at midday.

While there was no way of compiling accurate figures which might be all-inclusive, dispatches from points scattered from Boston to Kansas City showed that the strike had taken effect in shops on nearly all the important roads of the east and middle west.

The strike call, permitting blacksmiths, boilermakers, sheet metal workers, electrical workers, machinists and carmen to stop work, at 10 a. m. local time today, was issued Thursday night after a ballot by the 400,000 shop workers had showed, according to union officials, a 96 per cent majority in favor of striking.

Not more than 350,000 mechanics and helpers were actually at work, however, according to latest government figures, although the unions' total membership was allowed to vote, many shopmen being temporarily laid off.

Last minute efforts of the United States railroad labor board to throttle the impending walkout failed yesterday when B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts union, refused to appear at a federal inquiry into the strike call. Subpoena servers failed to locate him although it was learned he was closeted with his strike committee at a downtown hotel, which lasted until 2 o'clock this morning.

Complete backing for the labor board and its orders, two of which are involved in the present walkout, was assured by the administration in Washington, although no one would make any definite suggestion on how the government might act to end the strike.

At Topeka, Kansas, Governor Henry J. Allen took the first remedial steps when he summoned the state's three industrial court judges and Attorney General Hopkins in conference. Protection will be given all railway employees who remain at work, Governor Allen said.

The strike came peacefully over the entire country with only one exception, according to noon reports. A slight clash occurred at Ivy City, Maryland, when striking shopmen from the Baltimore and Ohio shops mistook a detail of guards for strike-breakers. No one was injured.

Beginning in the New England states at 10 o'clock eastern time, the shopmen walked out generally on the Boston and Maine, New Haven, Bangor and Arisook and other roads. Gradually the walkout spread westward as the roundhouse clocks approached the zero hour—10 o'clock local time. By noon, defections were reported from every big road in the east, south and central west including the Erie, Pennsylvania, Northwestern Burlington, Chicago and Alton, Southern, Baltimore and Ohio and other big trunk lines.

NO INTERRUPTION TO TRAFFIC
There was no interruption of traffic on any line. Engineers and trainmen stuck to their posts, although under instructions from brotherhood chiefs they performed only their regular duties. All trains on the railroads reported were running on schedule.

Statements from rail executives all over the country, although admitted large defections from the shop ranks, reiterated their stand that transportation was unaffected and would continue so—perhaps for months.

No further effort would be made to settle the strike by the railroad labor board, it was said, at the board's offices, today. From Washington came word that the administration was solidly back of the board in its stand on the strike question in the failure of B. M. Jewell and other shop union leaders to appear before yesterday's investigation by the board.

The only action to complete the board's interest in the strike will be an official announcement of the board's views, an announcement expected to condemn the strike.

Involves 3 Questions
The administration took the stand that the strike was against decisions of the labor board. The shop strike was called on three questions:

(1) The $60,000,000 wage which went into effect today, along with a $75,000,000 cut for other classes, recently ordered by the board.

(2) Modification of seven rules, reducing overtime pay, also recently promulgated by the outside firms.

(3) The alleged illegal contracting of work by some roads to outside firms.

Much of the cause for grievance, railroad heads declare, was removed yesterday when a dozen roads announced before the board that they would discontinue all contract work.

Dispatches from the four corners of the country reported the walkout as general, although no accurate estimate of the percentage of the 400,000 shop workers who quit work could be compiled.

All hope of averting the nationwide strike of 400,000 railway shopmen apparently had vanished today as the hour for the walkout approached.

Ten o'clock was the time set for (Continued on Page 6)

BOYS' COURT, STATE SCHOOL, IS SUCCESS

Since It Has Been in Vogue, But Three Boys Have Run Away from School

Students in the State Training school learn of civic duties by an actual practice of them, according to W. F. McClelland, head of the institution. So successful has been the system of having the students guide themselves that when the student court was withdrawn for a time and the power of punishment vested in the officers of the school, the boys were the first to appeal for its restoration.

The boys court is about the same in its working as any other court. It has the advantage of having all its members interested in the enforcement of the few rules of the home, a personal interest, in fact, according to Mr. McClelland, who declared that the boys have discovered that the more fearlessly the court deals with offenders, the better it is for all of the members of the school.

In the dealings of the court, the youths find out the reason for rules, the method of administering rules, which are similar to the laws in the state, and how individual responsibility is the factor making possible the combination of many people together into one community. By the time the boy has been before the court a time or two or the same boy has been a member of the court, he has a very good idea of the functions of the law enforcing part of the state and city government.

That giving the boys of the understanding of the youths at the school has added to the attractiveness of the school is shown by the fact that in the past year but three boys have left the school and have not returned; while for the year preceding more than twenty years in the absent class.

Mr. McClelland is a firm believer in keeping faith with the youngsters and every one connected with the school is held to a strict accountability for all promises made. The boys carry this into their own life and their court and recently, when a boy returned a day late from a vacation, the court took from him a good position he had held as a punishment, for failing to keep his word and return on the date he had promised to.

LOCAL HOLSTEIN BREEDERS SELECT TRADE NAME

"Mandan Dairy" is the trade mark name that has been reserved exclusively for the use of John F. Lohstetter & Sons, of Mandan, as a prefix to the regular registration name for all Holstein animals raised on the Lohstetter Farm, and registered on the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, according to an official announcement recently made by Secretary F. L. Houghton, of Brattleboro, Vt.

All registered animals carry besides a registry number a family name usually indicating the ancestral blood-lines. As a means of identifying the various breeding establishments of the country trade mark names are reserved by the Association for the exclusive use of breeders. Thus an animal can always be identified as to its original birth-place. Every Holstein man in the United States knows that a cow named Pabst Clover Blossom must come from the Pabst Stock Farm of Oconomowoc, Wis. In a like manner animals carrying the prefix "Mandan Dairy" will in the future be recognized as coming from the Lohstetter herd of Mandan, N. Dak.

Knock Your Town and You Are Knocking Yourself, He Tells Audience

WHAT BISMARCK NEEDS

The town you live in is what you make it. If you knock the town you are knocking yourself.

This is what Howard J. Wischaupt, "the pep man," told a large audience of local people in the Rialto theater last night closing "Better Business Week." He talked upon Bismarck and upon community advertising.

Mr. Wischaupt found much to praise in which Bismarck had done, with her newly paved streets, new bridge and active community organizations. He found evidence that there are slackers in the town, who do not visualize what Bismarck may be visualizing it, do not attempt to reach the goal.

Bismarck needs a new capital and a new court house, he declared. They ought to be in keeping with the progressive spirit abroad in the community.

He urged co-operation among merchants. They must co-operate he said, or the mail order houses will take their business. He attacked the scandal monger and declared that "one of God's own children" was one who had nerve enough to talk back to and shut up the whisperer of lies and half-truths.

EASTERN PRIVATE SCHOOLS-- WESTERN PRIVATE SCHOOLS--

In every section of the United States specialists in education have established schools that are entitled to particular distinction in shaping the characters of their students.

In this issue of THE LITERARY DIGEST there are many advertisements of good schools.

In which school to select is a matter for the careful consideration of the parent or guardian and we suggest that parents of families and prospective students read our school announcements carefully.

THE LITERARY DIGEST is prepared to make suggestions to parents and the School Advisory Department will be glad to answer letters. The requests must give name and address of parent or guardian; sex and age of child to be placed; approximate price to be expended for board and tuition; locality, and size of school desired.

For years we have suggested early application to the schools. It is difficult to find the ideal school during the last week preceding the opening of a new session.

START SUIT IN SERVICE MEN'S CERTIFICATES

egality of Proposed Plan of Cashing Soldiers' Bonuses
Taken to Court

Suit has been commenced before Judge W. L. Nussle here to test the validity of the proposed plan of cashing the soldier Bonus certificates.
The plan was approved at the last convention of the Legion at Devils Lake.

Because his contest ended in defeat at all times, Otto Bauer, the Morton county tax payer who brought the suits contesting the sale of the hail warrants to the Minnesota Louis Trust Company, has through his attorneys brought the present suit. The suit, like that of the hail warrants is to clear up certain legal phases and to make the certificates more saleable through having supreme court approval of the transaction, if such approval of the action is finally given.

The first point of attack in the suit is that the Soldier Bonus Law is unconstitutional, because the payment of the money constitutes a gift, and not compensation.

The second point is that if the law is constitutional, the Industrial Commission does not have the power to issue notes to the purchasing companies, while the state treasurer holds the service men's certificates as collateral. Practically the same point was made in the hail warrants case, but under the hail warrants law the Industrial Commission was authorized to borrow money to cash the warrants.

The sale clause in the soldier bonus law is that the soldier may assign the claim, and some have been disposed of in that way, but the law fails to specifically provide for the act of general sale as in the hail warrant law. However the attorneys believe that the assignment features of the law are such that there will be no hitch in the general sale plan.
Mr. Bauer is represented in the suit by the attorneys of the Legion who have been considering the matter and arranging the details of sale.
Attorney General Johnson, when served with notice of the suit, appeared before Judge Nussle and entered a demurrer, and the attorneys for the Legion and the Attorney General then joined in a plea that the case be immediately certified to the supreme court.

WORKMEN'S BUREAU TO BE AUDITED

Supreme Court Holds All Expenses Must Be Audited
by State Board

Travel expenses, salaries, and all expenses of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau must be audited by the State Auditing Board according to a decision of the North Dakota Supreme court in the mandamus case of the Compensation Bureau against John Steen, state treasurer.

One of the first orders of the present Industrial Commission was that it would not pay bills that had not been audited by the regular board. The Workmen's Compensation Bureau brought mandamus action to compel the state treasurer to pay a bill, which had not been approved by the auditing committee, the suit being started in the Burleigh county courts.

The decision of the supreme court,
from which Justice Grace dissents, and which is written by Justice Bronson is that the auditing of the travel expenses, salaries, etc., is mandatory by the general state audit board before the bills can be allowed.

"Bills for supplies," declares the opinion of the court, "and for expenses of a traveling auditor incurred by the Workmen's Compensation Bureau must be audited by the State Auditing Board pursuant to the provisions of paragraph D, Chapter 145 of the laws of 1921 and the general law applicable thereto. Salaries and all other expenses under the law should be audited by the State Auditing Board."

In further amplifying the opinion,
the Supreme Court holds that Chapter 145 had been passed by the legislature, especially to make certain that the bills of the Workmen's Bureau were included in the work of the Auditing Board.

The auditing board is composed of the Governor, Commissioner of Insurance, Attorney General, State Treasurer, State Examiner, with the state auditor as secretary.

The result of the action will place all of the expenses of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, except claims for injuries, under the review of the present state officials.

INDEPENDENTS MAY CONTROL STATE SENATE

Within Striking Distance as Result of the Primary Election

Fargo, July 1.—The initiated lay repealing the teachers' wage act has been approved by the electors. Likewise, the proposal increasing the bond debt limit for financing farm loans from $10,- 000,000 to $20,000,000 has been approved. These results are disclosed by partial returns available today.

Fargo, N. D., July 1.—Defeat of Leaguers in Traill, Benson and Pierce, opens the way to the turnover in the state senate.

Nonpartisans have ousted an independent senator in Morton county.
Of the 24 senators being elected this year ten of the nominees on the Republican ticket where there were contests, are Independents. There-are 15 holdover Independents, thus putting the Independents within striking distance provided they go through the general election as they did in the primary.

The Nonpartisans have ten hold-over members of the senate. Of the nominees on the Republican ticket where there were contests, the leaguers have 13 candidates. The lieutenant governor also will be an Independent if his vote should be needed.
In two counties the nominations were without opposition. In LaMoore, Leaguers have the Republican nomination, the Independents going into the Democratic column. In the southern McHenry county district, the Leaguers have the Democrat nomination, the Independents have the Republican nomination.

Leaguers have won Republican nominations in Ransom, Barnes, Mc-Lain, Mottson, Dunn, Mountrail, Ward, Bottineau, Steele and Griggs, Rollette, Emmons and Kidder, Eddy, Foster, Burke and Divide counties.

Independents have won nominations in Walsh, Grand Forks, Cavalier, Cass, Traill, Richland, Logan and McIntosh, Benson, Pierce and Towner counties.

There are vacant places in the ranks that can never

But there's your old place in the line, Buddy, wait-

(Established 1873)

SWARMS OF PEOPLE

You see houses spring up on vacant lots in the city—and you comment: "Property is building up solid. I wonder how far this congestion will go. Pretty soon, we'll be packed in like sardines."

The popular notion about civilized congestion is exaggerated. We are getting the houses closer together, but living quarters are not as congested now as they were 72 years ago.

Striking an average, the Census Bureau finds five persons to each dwelling. In 1850 the average home had six occupants.

It is probable, too, that the average home is larger now than in 1850. They had many big mansions in those days—but, a great many more small homes, including log cabins in which kitchen, dining and living rooms were combined in one.

We moderns take a larger floor-space, partition it off into a greater number of rooms. We observe the smallness of each room—and get the notion that we are headed toward an existence in piano boxes.

You see a man build his home on a small piece of property in the congested district, in preference to a larger property farther out, where the cost might be lower, certainly would not be higher.

If you are in a philosophical frame of mind, you see that human beings have a swarming instinct—like bees, ants, schools of fish and herds of caribou.

Fear is back of this swarming instinct. Men banded together in a community for mutual protection against wild beasts.

Later it was for protection against other communities of men. It was discovered that it was easier to build a wall or stockade around a village of 1000 people than to build individual walls or stockades around each of 1000 separate dwellings.

The swarming instinct, a form of fear, started civilization. Banded together, men discovered that each had a natural knack for some one task. Specialization followed, then barter—the primitive form of business.

Misery loves company. So does joy. The swarming instinct crops out inevitably in everything worth while, also everything futile.

Let half a dozen pedestrians pause in a crowded street to look at a car, and the crowd grows like flies around sugar. The chief reason for such swarming is the monkey instinct of imitation.

We talk a lot about being individuals, but ready at all times on nearly every tongue is, "Come on, join the crowd."

There is no great lesson to be learned from studying the human swarming instinct. It is a law that cannot be altered, by philosophy—part of the "destiny" that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we may."

ESKIMOS

Canada's mounted police count noses and find only about 2700 Eskimos living in the Far North, not including Alaska.

The low figure is surprising. Beginning with the first lesson in geography, we have been told much about the Eskimos that most of us imagined they existed in much greater numbers.

In bidding for fame, the Eskimos have had the additional handicap of never producing a great man.

Despite mediocrity and fenness, the Eskimos have become known in all parts of the earth.

This shows the power of advertising.

TRAINING

A professor in a co-educational college boasts that his school "places great stress on training its young women to become good wives and mothers."

Mrs. Elizabeth Sears, president of the New York League of Business and Professional Women, interrupts with this: "And what method do you use to train your young men to become good husbands and fathers?" No answer, of course.

DIAMONDS

Diamonds are being imported at the rate of only $32,000,000 a month. Two years ago, the figure was three times as big.

How many diamonds there are in the world is beyond even a rough guess. South Africa has produced about $20,000,000 worth since the two children of a Dutch farmer, playing in the gravel of a river, found the first Kimberley diamond, in 1867.

Our country has corralled half of the world's diamonds, which reveals something about our national prosperity compared with that of other countries.

FALSE REPORTS

Some of the reports brought back by modern Baron Munchausens would make it seem that the German workman is toiling extremely "long hours."

This is not true, according to an investigation by the Iron Age, trade journal. It finds German metal workers on an eight-hour-day basis, with German coal miners limited by law to a maximum of seven hours a day.

The worker in German steel mills is getting about $3.20 a week in his money. That provides us with an interesting problem in canvassing for foreign trade.

THE STATE CAPITAL HIS MONUMENT

The funeral rites for Alexander McKenzie were held in the Capital building at Bismarck. The ceremony and the attendance comprised a fitting tribute to the man who located the capital in that city, and whose early life and purposes are inseparably entwined with the structure, the construction and the institutions of this state. The body lay beneath the speaker's stand, in the House of Representatives, and the casket was almost concealed by flowers, whose fragrance filled the hall.

The strong, commanding features of the dead, now placid in the repose of death, were viewed by hundreds of old friends, and by newer citizens of the state, many of whom knew little of the work and career of the man at rest. "After life's fitful fever, he sleeps well."

Alexander McKenzie had a dominating, but engaging personality, a physical strength and endurance equal to his mental gifts. His main purpose or ambition was constructive—to build up the state; to leave its history, its institutions as his monument. In this he succeeded beyond the efforts of any other man.

Linked with his ambition to develop and build up the state, was an almost equal passion for power, and the exercise of it and to gratify this he naturally developed deep, intense friendships that he bound to him by hoops of steel. He made enemies who never forgave or forgot. Strong friendships or friends, strong opposition for opponents, worthy of his steel, were prominent characteristics of this most remarkable man. McKenzie had great faults, and great virtues, but his work and his life history as a state builder, and loyal citizen of the northwest, overshadowed the faults and the virtues of his nature. In his desire to retain power and use it for what he deemed the larger purposes of his life plan, he made mistakes, mistakes of pursuing opponents whose opposition might have been forgotten as a necessary incident in accomplishing that to which he devoted the best years of his life, and the best that was in him.

His personal qualities of courage, force, purpose, nobility, and deeds of charity, helpfulness, fidelity to friends, illuminate and soften the asperities of a strong and determined nature. He did good deeds without ostentation, and of his accomplishments he was as modest as a girl, always ready to give credit to the services of others.

McKenzie has often been accused of working for the interests of large corporations, of railroads, of the immense machinery of business organization. But to whatever extent he directed the early and some subsequent administration of the state; to whatever point he led the legislation of the state; to whatever degree he was responsible for the selection of men as officials to do the executive work of the state, his efforts were at the same time for the equal benefit of all the citizens of the state. If the taxation of corporations and business enterprises that went into the development of North Dakota, was kept within reasonable but adequate bounds, to the necessities of state government, the taxation and the rights of the entire population were also protected and promoted. The "old guard" administration, with its centralization of power in Alexander McKenzie, provided all the necessary funds for our progress and development. Taxes were light, and the small population of the state no complaint to utter, while education, public charities, administration of law and order, were gifts to the citizens that cost them little or nothing.

With only a slight increase in population since the "old guard" were deposed from power, and the leaders set aside for the exploits and the management of an aggregation claiming to represent democracy, where in the men in control showed what a loyal or constructive purpose, what change has occurred? The debts have been added to the state, divided citizenship has followed; controversies, accusations, prejudices have been created, and the state is now struggling to recover a position in the nation and a protection for itself that it once enjoyed.

Most of the old time leaders have gone. McKenzie is one of the last to go; but their deeds will live in the history of achievement, in the building of a new state wrought on the confines of a prairie wilderness, and wrested from the Indian, the buffalo, and the trapper of furs. This task done, the people who came after them, are the beneficiaries.

Looking back over the record of McKenzie and the period of his political control of the state; viewing his personal faults and accompanying virtues, the old regime was far better, far safer for the state at large, than the which has followed the defeat of the old guard and its administration of state affairs. The cry of McKenzism cannot and does not apply to him or his friends, but what has happened to the state in the last five years, is far worse for the welfare of the state, than any act of the old guard in relation to the state; is more dangerous for the future than any act of the old guard in the past.

With the death of McKenzie the dominating personal element of political control has passed far from it, was embraced in the activities of one man. It is now the duty of those who have the public welfare in view to forget the old animosities, the old political prejudices, and unite in a common purpose to protect from further disaster, the structure which the pioneers have created in the commonwealth of North Dakota. This duty is a privilege, worthy of the best efforts and the highest purposes of our best citizenship and leadership.—Jamestown Alet.

ST. LOUIS ON BATTING RAMPAGE

By Defeating Cleveland They Now Have Three-Game Lead Over Yankees

REDS MAKE 1 HOME RUN

(By the Associated Press) Chicago, July 1.—The St. Louis Browns, who are on one of their most spectacular batting rampages are leading the Yankees today by three full games as a result of their victory over Cleveland in the fourth contest of the series, 10 to 3.

Sisler led the attack of Pohl's men on Cleveland with three singles, hoisting his grand average to .432; while Wood did the bulk of the swinging for the Indians with four hits, including a double and a home run.

Philadelphia and Boston continued their "in and out" game around last place, the Athletics dropping to the cellar again as a result of losing to the Red Sox 4 to 1.

Olson's two fumbles in the sixth inning helped Boston to win an unusual game from Brooklyn 3 to 2. Neither Cadore nor Fillingim, the opposing twirlers, issued a pass or registered a strike out.

Cincinnati broke out into a rash of home runs and double plays, four circuit clouts enabling the Reds to hang up a 9 to 5 victory, while the fielding features checked the Cubs when they threatened to rally.

Earl Smith's homer was the deciding factor in the Giants' defeat of Philadelphia 6 to 4, while Sheneil blanked the Pittsburgh six to nothing, giving the St. Louis Cardinals their second straight over the Pirates.

The Cincinnati Reds played an exhibition game at champion, Illinois, Thursday and knocked out five home runs, winning ten to three. When they faced the Chicago Cubs yesterday, the home run fever was still in their veins and Duncan, Harper, Bohne and Caveny each clouted homers.

"CHICK" EVANS AND VON ELM REACH FINALS

Middlewest Clashes with Far West Today in Western Golf Tournament

(By the Associated Press) Kansas City, Mo., July 1.—The Midwest clashed with the far west today when Chick Evans of Chicago and George Von Elm of Salt Lake City, Utah, faced each other in the finals of the western amateur golf tournament over the Hillcrest course with "Chick's" six times held title as champion at stake.

The two came through their semifinal matches yesterday in splendid shape, "Chick" outclassing Fred Wright of Los Angeles 6 and 5 in one of the best games the title holder has shot in many moons, while Von Elm outlasted Clarence Wolff of St. Louis, continuing a steady game while his opponent failed under the strain as the contest neared the end with victory in either man's grasp.

Evans Ahead Shooting in sensational fashion, "Chick" Evans of Chicago, was five up on George Von Elm of Salt Lake City at the 18th hole of their 36 hole match for the western amateur golf championship. Evans shot the first nine in 31, three under par and the second in 35, one under against Von Elm's 37-49-77, the latter's wildness causing him much trouble.

FAME IN BASEBALL COMES AND GOES

CLARENCE MUELLER

Four Years Ago Mueller Was an Errand Boy—Today Stars with Cardinals

BY BILLY EVANS. Fame comes quickly in baseball. It slips away just as rapidly. For further information consult Babe Ruth.

Four years ago Clarence Mueller was an errand boy around the clubhouse of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Today no youngster has a brighter future in baseball than Mueller unless a serious injury to one of his legs plays havoc with his chances.

His job as errand boy around the clubhouse gave the youngster a chance to mingle with the players, work out with them in morning practice and before the game.

Mueller is an ambitious youth. During his kid days Johnny Tobin of the St. Louis Browns was the youngster's idol. He has observed the play of Tobin for years and today he does a great many things on the ball field after the style of the Browns' star outfielder.

Mueller's cleverness in morning practice caught the eye of Manager Branch Rickey. Incidentally Mueller informed Rickey about that time that he would like to get a chance to play professional ball.

Rickey signed Mueller to a St. Louis contract last season, but turned him out to the Syracuse club of the International League to gain experience.

It didn't take Mueller long to prove his ability. In the first 75 games he played for Syracuse he batted .302. His work caused Rickey to recall him.

THEM "MICHIGAN CITY BLUES"

As Sung by Fitz

BY ROY GIBBONS. Michigan City, Ind., June 30.—No song writer has written "Those Michigan City Blues" yet.

The "Toledo Blues" came out in 1920 when Jack Dempsey hung the paint brush over Jess Willard.

And the "Jersey City Blues" happened along last year when Georges Carpentier took his four-round spill.

But the jazz composers will find greater inspiration here.

Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons has painted the name seats in his new concrete bowl turquois.

Outdoor arenas are usually first-class fireless cookers. Fans took a Turkish bath in the Toledo lot. A hazy sky saved the day for Tex Rickard's pine board plant in Jersey.

But there'll be no heat prostrations here.

The "Michigan City Blues" don't reflect the sunlight.

By actual test it has been proven that one can face the sun there with all the comfort of having an umbrella over your back—that is the blue seats neutralize the sun's rays.

When Jack Rickard looked the plant over and signed for Jack Dempsey to box here Labor Day he said: "The best spot in the world. Suits me. It'll suit the champ. The match is on."

Dempsey is coming east on an exhibition tour. He'll do one-night stands.

The champion will move in here with his victrola and police dogs around the first of August.

A cottage, more like the Morrison hotel in Chicago than a beach bungalow, has been engaged for him.

The Dempsey mill is the big kick on the Fitzsimmons summer program, but two other champions will warm up the new arena first.

Rocky Kansas is training now for the opener July Fourth with Benny Leonard.

The Harry Greb-Tommy Gibbons match for August 5 is still hanging flat with favorable winds blowing.

Fitz figures that the fans are going to pay him close to a million gold dollars to sit in his 30,000 turquoise blue seats during the summer season.

JACK JOHNSON, "TUT" JACKSON, WILL NOT FIGHT

Hamilton, Ohio, July 1.—The Jack Johnson-"Tut" Jackson July 4 bout, transferred here when a court order prevented its being held in Washington Court House, Ohio, was declared off today.

Roland Miller, secretary of the boxing commission said the fight will not be held because Johnson refused to post his $2,000 forfeit and because he demanded 33 per cent of the receipts.

The local commission will recommend the former heavyweight champion of the world be barred from Ohio.

Thousands of Men Over Nation Drop Their Tools

B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor who with officials of the shop crafts drafted summons to appear before the United States labor board yesterday, had apparently decided to remain consistent with his ultimatum to the strikers last week.

Jewell successfully avoided subpoena servers during the night after the board issued a writ calling upon him to appear at the close of yesterday's conference. He was found after midnight by newspapermen at a hotel, where he had met with his chairman and considered hundreds of telegrams regarding the strike. He declined to comment on the situation.

Jewell's Ultimatum In his ultimatum Jewell told rail executives the only possible avenue to peace for the railroads to follow was to ignore the $80,000,000 from the wages of shopmen today and to restore laws governing overtime pay and working conditions along with an agreement to discontinue the system by which several roads farmed out work to contractors.

Declaring that the "blood was on Jewell's own head," Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the labor board, who led the way in averting the threatened strike of trainmen last October, said Jewell's belated appearance under subpoena could not at such a late hour result in any reversal of the strike order in time to prevent a suspension.

Railway executives who appeared at yesterday's conference virtually removed one of the strike issues when, on by one many of them whose roads had been following the practice, announced they would abolish the contract system in their shops. The board, in several cases brought by employees against the roads, ruled the carriers were violating the transportation act in farming out work to contractors.

To Operate on Open Shop Basis As the strike loomed inevitable railroad officials declared the public would scarcely be aware of the walk-out except through reading about it. Transportation will continue uninterrupted they asserted, and in some centers it was indicated that shops would be operated on an open shop basis. Definite word from headquarters of the maintenance-of-way employees at Detroit early today that the track workers would remain at work until July 3, at least, pending conferences left the shop crafts alone in the walkout today.

The following table, prepared from information supplied by the federated-shop crafts indicates the number of employees in each craft receiving authorization to strike today:

International Association of Machinists—80,000. International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron, Shipbuilders and Helpers of America—18,000.

International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers of America—10,000.

Amalgamated Metal Sheet Works International Alliance—11,000. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers—12,000.

Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America—100,000. Helpers, not included in above—110,000.

Apprentices—20,000. Total—401,000.

Approximately 100,000 of these are employees of shops in Chicago and environs.

Special Motorized Police Special motorized details of police were assigned by Chief Fitzmorris to duty in districts situated near railroad shops to prevent any possible disorders growing out of the strike here.

In his communication to the labor board intimating his intention to ignore its summons to appear at yesterday's conference and questioning the authority of the board to intervene and impose conditions on the shopmen, Mr. Jewell declared that union leaders are doing everything

Another pointed statement in the president's address was "Labor has the right, capital has the right, and above all else, the American public has the right to be freed from these recurring anxieties (strikes) no matter what the causes are. That freedom must be established."

This warning note from the president after he had described the critical plight facing the nation through a continuation of the present suspension of work which today entered upon the fourth day of its continuance, was a statement of Attorney General Daugherty who after conferring with the president just prior to the convening of the conference said he would not sit in the meeting as the department of justice would not interest itself in the matter for the present.

RETURNS FROM RESEARCH TRIP

Rev. C. B. Newcomb, superintendent of the Society for the Friendless, has returned from Chicago and Indianapolis where he carried on some research work for his organization.

While in Indianapolis he visited a Baptist and a Lutheran orphanage and had interviews with the presidents and various professors of two of the colleges of that city. He found that these men believed that the students should all be thoroughly instructed in biology, a course in which young people may acquire a scientific understanding of the origin and continuation of animal and human life. Rev. Newcomb reported that it was the opinion of the college men whom he met that the "good sport" idea among the college students was leading to undesirable results.

M'CUMBER LOSS MAY HURT WEST IN TARIFF BILL

Removal as Chairman of Finance Committee Will Renew Old Fight on Protection

AFFECTS LEGISLATION

The defeat of Senator McCumber may have an important bearing upon legislation of the present Congress, and upon the interests of North Dakota according to reports from the east when the news that Senator McCumber probably was defeated was first received.

The entire farm bloc of the United States senate, excepting Senator Ladd, endorsed Senator McCumber because they feared that if he were defeated and lost as chairman of the finance committee of the senate the agricultural tariff schedules written to protect western farmers might be knocked out. For many years agriculture was about the only unprotected industry in the United States under high tariff policy approved by the people in many elections in opposition to the "free trade" policies of the Democrats.

Senator McNary of Oregon, one of the leaders of the farm bloc, in an interview published in an eastern newspaper said that the defeat of McCumber would be a blow to the western farmers. He declared that McCumber was the first western senator to really make a fight for protection of farm products in the tariff schedules and he was one of the leaders in the fight against agricultural reciprocity with Canada years ago which Northwest farmers feared would send down the price of their products.

Senator Capper of Kansas, chairman of the farm bloc, was another who viewed the situation similarly. In an eastern publication, discussing Senator McCumber's case, said that Senator McCumber's course as chairman of the finance committee was not entirely pleasing to the eastern conservatives. His insistence upon recognition of the west in all legislation made them wish for a more conservative leader of the finance committee. His advocacy of the soldier bonus bill was bitterly attacked by eastern interests. The future success of this measure is held extremely doubtful by McCumber's defeat.

That the Republican Congressional committee will support former Governor Lynn J. Frazier for election in the fall is held to be a foregone conclusion. "The Republicans would fear the election of a Democratic senator from North Dakota more than the election of Frazier. This is held to be especially true of senators from western states who remember the attacks made upon western farmers' interests by the southern senator during the recent period of Democratic control. Belief on the part of leading Democrats that they can capture the next Congress also will bring the full force of the national Republican organizations into the election of Republicans to the Senate and to Congress.

Senator McCumber was the first western senator to achieve the place as chairman of the finance of the senate. His accession to that place was hailed throughout the west. It was received by apprehension in Wall street and other financial centers. His place will be filled by Senator Smoot of Utah, who, according to one leading writer, would be more sympathetic to eastern interests than Senator McCumber.

Senator McCumber will end more than 25 years of public service in elective offices next March. In 1884 he was elected to the lower house of the territorial legislature and in 1886 to the upper house of that body. In 1890 when the legislature convened there was a formidable coterie of candidates for the United States Senatorship. When voting commenced in the two houses of the legislature McCumber had but six votes. Senator M. N. Johnson was leading. The other candidates combined on McCumber and he was elected.

Mr. McCumber had been a leading member of the senate finance committee for many years, although only a few months ago was made chairman. He was author of the first grain-grading bill in congress, was chairman of the committee on pensions for years and served on the committee on Indian affairs and public lands. He also is ranking Republican on the foreign affairs committee.

Senator McCumber will be succeeded to the chairmanship of the finance committee by Senator Smoot. Senator La Follette of Wisconsin is next in line. La Follette's influence was felt in the North Dakota election. He was a close friend of the late Senator Griggs.

Thirty-three freight and five passenger cars were derailed, wreckage was strewn along the tracks for half a mile, but no one was hurt in this Central R. R. of New Jersey wreck at Somerville, N. J.

in the publicity pamphlet when a candidate for the senate some years ago said that he had made a study of La Follette's taxation program when in the University of Wisconsin and had always been regarded as one more or less allied with the "La Follette's School."

The retirement of Senator McCumber gives Senator Reed Smoot of Utah the opportunity of becoming the chairman of the committee on finance. Senator Smoot has declared that he will not take that place. The next in line is Senator Robert H. La Follette of Wisconsin, to whose selection there is decided opposition in the senate. Senator La Follette is now engaged in the fight for his political life in his own state and if he should not be re-elected, the senate difficulties will be solved. In event he is elected, the senate majority will have to face a proposal to overturn the seniority rule which has been in force from time immemorial.

"I have no statement to make of the reasons for my defeat," the senator said when interviewed in Washington. "It is the fortune of war, and that is all there is to it."

SEE ASSURED CROP.
Minot, July 1.—Any lingering doubts concerning the crop in northwestern North Dakota were dispelled by the general rain over this section of the state yesterday, last night and today.

In Minot the precipitation yesterday and last night amounted to .52 inches but it was greater at several other points, sections north and northwest of Minot. Crosby, Bowbells, Kenmare, Mohall and Bottineau, all report heavy rains with an inch and half falling in Bottineau. The rain was so heavy in Bottineau that the Bottineau fair program was called off. The fair is being conducted today, however, and will conclude tomorrow.

JOHN TAYLOR DIES ON TRIP

Well Known Painter Was on Fishing Excursion in Wisconsin

John Taylor, 36 years old, painter, who was well known about Bismarck, died suddenly at West Bend, Wisconsin, where he was on a fishing trip, according to a telegram received by Fred Peterson from Harvey Fransden.

Mr. Taylor, Harvey Fransden and Oscar Burkhardt had gone to Wisconsin for a vacation trip. Burial will be in Wisconsin.

Mr. Taylor had lived in Bismarck for six or eight years at the Bismarck hotel. Following receipt of news of his death Mr. Peterson attempted to locate his relatives, but was unable to do so. He will endeavor to find them through the records of the war draft boards.

Information received here stated that Mr. Taylor was fishing with others in about two feet of water in a clearing in the woods, the men fishing for bass. Suddenly he dropped and others rushed to his assistance but he was dead. Heart failure is believed to have caused his death.
